Exploring World Agriculture

Spring Term 2004 AREC 438X (2 credits P/N) CRN 37349
Also cross-listed as HORT 438X (37350) and ANS 438X (37370).

This course will explore agricultural production, processing, and marketing in the global setting with an emphasis on South America, specifically Chile and Argentina. On campus study during the spring term will be combined with a 2-week travel experience to these countries immediately after Fall Quarter to gain first hand familiarity with agriculture, natural resources, food systems, and culture in other regions of the world. Enrollment in the spring term course does not require that you travel to Chile and Argentina, but you could!
